

BEAUTY BAG BONUS

The Card Cache

www.thecardcache.com/

An American mom got fed up with her Best Buy and Costco card falling out of her wallet, and mixing it up with all her discount, gift and club savings cards floating around the bottom well of her purse.

Sound familiar? Whenever I am at Sephora or BevMo (don't judge, the 5 cent wine buys are awesome) I can never find the discount frequent flier cards! Then they issue me a new one and before you know it I have two of every card out there.

This entrepreneurial lady created the super chic The Card Cache, which looks like a piece of jewelry, as a way to corral those cards and keep some order to the handbag.

This mom's prized designer wallet fell apart because it was overstuffed with gift cards, discount cards, frequent flyer cards, business cards and more. She wanted a system that was convenient and stylish so that she could access those cards and savings easily.

Bingo, she created a company called MaMa CHANGE, born out of the philosophy that a woman's world is constantly changing and she has the choice to embrace change. By doing so, she can not only dramatically affect her world, but the world as a whole as well. MaMa CHANGE = World Change! This little invention has seriously changed my life and organized me for the better. Much love for the Card Cache!

April MacIntyre is Monsters and Critics' smallscreen and people/celebrity editor who loves to snoop around in makeup trailers when she can. You can follow her on Twitter.

